GISD trustees approve calendar, shorter year to start September 6

After a lengthy discussion in the Little Theatre of the Georgetown High School Thursday night the GISD board of trustees adopted a school calendar for the 1977-78 year and set first day of classes on September 6, after Labor Day.

The calendar also called for classes to be dismissed November 24 and 25 for Thanksgiving holidays and from December 20 to January 1 for the Christmas holidays. In order to end classes on a Friday, this year it will be May 26, the trustees agreed to shorten the Christmas holiday by two days and lengthen the Easter holiday to include March 23 through March 27.

At the Thursday night meeting the trustees also awarded the school depository bid to First National Bank in Georgetown. Bids were opened from both First National Bank and from Citizens State Bank and they chose the one offering the highest interest rates. First National pledged to pay 6.5 percent on time deposits and 6.5 percent on certificates of deposits, for amounts both less and more than $100,000.

the passing glance

What Bob Stanton is doing in that gravel pit in Serenada Country Estates is nothing short of astonishing. I drove out to inspect the diggings Friday morning and was amazed at the progress and the magnitude of the project. Eleven modern tennis courts are well underway, a swimming pool and club house are scheduled, with the project completion dated at about a year from now.

It's going to be first class.

MR. AND MRS. OTIS BICKHAM, who endured their own personal ordeal of the trial here this and last week, have nothing but praise for this place and its people. "This town took us to its heart, people invited us into their homes, and we return to our own home grateful to Georgetown and the people who live here. Nothing can bring our daughter back but what has happened here, the kindnesses and considerations that have been shown to us, have softened our ordeal and touched our hearts," Mrs. Bickham said Wednesday in my office.

Judge Yarborough didn't last long after the legislature went into session. Now he's plain citizen Yarborough and is facing a passel of problems with the law he had been chosen to administer. He was replaced by Charles W. Barrow, who, the dailies are saying, was "strongly supported by the lawyers of Texas," which isn't true.

THE LAWYERS FELL down on the job and neglected to adequately inform the electorate on the two men. If you asked a lawyer which of the candidates he supported he told you "Barrow." However, very few really went out of their way, or contributed any substantial money or effort to help elect Barrow. I remember only Joe McMaster in Georgetown approaching me on the subject. He also paid for an ad in the SUN. If the lawyers, who are in position to know the qualification of any candidate seeking the position of judge or prosecuting attorney, really want to elect the better man, they can usually do it.

Apparently Barrow is a solid man and another embarrassing episode in Texas political history has ended.

That's to be a Pizza Hut on the north side of the Southwestern Plaza Shopping Center, one of the workmen told me Friday morning.

The trustees voted to accept Harold Simpson and Company as the official auditor for the 1976-77 year with the provision that the representative preparing the audit appear before the board of trustees.

More than 50 minutes of the school board meeting was spent with Gene McKee, the representative from Brasher, Gayette and Rapier, the architectural firm hired to design the refurbishing of the school system buildings. McKee discussed several options with the board and they agreed on several minor renovations to the original plans.

Budgets for the district's music and athletic programs were approved by the trustees without revisions. The music program budget differs from last year's in that more money is allotted for repairs to instruments and less is allotted for the purchase of new equipment. $800 was earmarked for the music program for grades kindergarten through fourth and $3,200 was agreed on for the remaining grades and the choir. The band budget was set at $12,000.

The GISD athletic budget was increased 14.9 percent from last year with the majority of the increase going to expand the girls athletic program. $28,629 was allotted for the fall football program, $8,523 was allotted for each the girls and boys track program.

In other business the trustees refused to give the city of Georgetown permission to build a street through the campus of the primary school. The proposed street would have extended from Maple Street to Olive Street, along the route of the old railroad tracks.

Jury gives Muniz death

A Williamson County jury Wednesday sentenced Pedro Cruz Muniz to death for the rape and murder of Janis Carol Bickham in Georgetown last December.

After nearly five hours of deliberation, the jury returned at 10:20 p.m. Wednesday with their answers to the two questions that would decide whether Muniz received the death sentence or a sentence of life in prison.

JUDGE WILLIAM S. LOTT asked the first question, "Do you find beyond a reasonable doubt that the conduct of the defendant, Pedro Cruz Muniz, that caused the death of the deceased was committed deliberately with reasonable expectation that the death of the deceased or another would result?"

City council considers one hour parking

Georgetown city council is undertaking a study to determine whether one hour parking is needed downtown.

The study, inaugurated at the request of Charles Farrow, resulted after Farrow circulated a questionnaire among merchants, most of whom favored such a change.

Farrow estimates 350-400 parking spaces exist in adjacent areas off the square. He claims many are going unused while spaces around retail businesses are taken by employees, particularly courthouse personnel.

Police Chief Travis Thomas says many people "play a game," in that they rub off tire marks, move their (or a friend's) car one space over, all in an effort to park as close as possible to their work. The problem, he says, becomes particularly acute on rainy days.

City Manager Leo Wood said Georgetown might go to a "Cushman type motor patrol," if city council deemed one-hour parking necessary. Such a system would enable all automobiles checked hourly and permit marking on rainy days.

Wood noted, however, that "shoppers prefer two hour parking, merchants, one hour."

Pro Tem Harry Gold believes some legwork and some research needs to be done to feel the pulse of local merchants before anything concrete is decided.

Gold and Councilman Ken Olson are spearheading such a study and expect to report conclusions to the entire council next month.

Farrow believes some foot dragging is going on. He claims he personally conducted the same study among Georgetown merchants and to a tee (with one exception) all those responding favored one hour downtown parking to clear spaces for shoppers. He questions the advisability of another study since "the city already has the results of my survey in its hands."

Several councilmen favor trying the proposal on a trial basis and admit changing the present system will require a considerable amount of work to change signs.

Parking meters are not favored and are seen as driving business away from downtown.

Although parking close is a convenience, Farrow says there are about 350 unused parking spaces — all free, for employees who need eight hour parking and are willing to walk 2-3 minutes to their offices or stores.

Last week City Secretary Wink Walden kept track daily of the unused parking spaces behind First National Bank and found an average of 20 empty each day. Farrow says the same situation prevails in many areas, including 6th Street, 9th Street, Rock Street, and Church Street.

Merchants believe that inadequate parking will drive shoppers outside the city. Parking meters, they say, will have the same effect. Convenience of parking, closeness to the stores, and plentiful parking are seen as important aspects of keeping downtown alive.

Farrow sees council's actions on this matter "as one of the most vital and important decisions they'll ever make if the downtown merchants are to survive."

Councilmen Gold and Olson are expected to question every downtown merchant in an effort to feel the pulse of their thinking on this matter; they'll report for consideration their conclusions to the entire council next month.

Week's news in a nutshell

U.S. Representative Bob Poage, 77, accepted financial favors from South African sugar producers while he was chairman of the House Agricultural Committee, said the Justice Department. There will be no criminal charges in the case because the statute of limitations has expired.

Prompted by a suit filed by the Leander school district, a federal judge in Austin has ruled unconstitutional the system currently used in Texas to distribute state education money. The present system is based only on the value of the districts real property and ignores intangible property like stocks and bank deposits.

The Texas Water Quality Board may soon take action against Round Rock because the city sewage treatment plant has caused two major fish kills on Brushy Creek within the last year.

The Cedar Park Volunteer Fire Department has begun its first fund drive in two years to help bolster its sagging treasury.

The Legislature ended their nine day special session after passing a school finance bill, nursing reform legislation and a law allowing the state to build a deepwater port.

The U.S. has decided not to veto Vietnam's admission to the United Nations.

Former Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski of Houston has become the chief investigator of the House's Korean influence-buying scandal. He was assured he would have a free hand and "could go all the way regardless of who it would hurt."

Fires have devastated thousands of acres in drought-stricken parts of Utah, Montana and Wyoming.

Egypt claims to have beaten back an air and ground attack launched by Libya across their common border.

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin wants the U.S. to stand back and let him negotiate with the Arabs directly.

A Palm Springs psychiatrist and co-author of a book entitled "Coping With Living, How to Handle Your Emotional Problems," has been arrested for hiring a "hit man" to murder another Palm Springs physician with whom he has been feuding.

The FBI arrested two men in Florida for trying to smuggle a top secret cruise missile component to a Soviet agent in Cuba.

TO MAKE AMERICA WORK, AMERICANS WORKED

However precious the baby, however cute the toddler, there is no way you can — or would want to — keep that baby from growing.

Or that tree.

Or our country.

THERE IS A PROPER CONCERN for hanging on to what our forefathers created. But we must not lose the courage to create ourselves!

Sen. Bill Scott (R-Va.) said it: "To make America work, Americans worked!"

For most of two centuries our nation was known for its energy, its vitality, its unbounded optimism.

In an instant, as historical time is measured, our dynamic nation gained 6 percent of the planet's population and came to possess more than half of all the world's good things.

Treasured American freedoms ensured for us, individually and as a nation, the freedom to grow, to make mistakes, to learn from the mistakes and try again.

Wally Hickel lives mostly on our nation's last frontier, Alaska. From that land of can-do he's observing the rest of us with much disappointment and some dismay.

HE FEARS OUR RED-WHITE-and-blue blood is turning to skim milk. He sees us growing hyper-cautious—afraid to have babies, afraid to fly faster, afraid to win wars.

He says the advocates of no-growth have stunted our spirit.

We want the fruits of business without the labor.

We want the results of a Prudhoe Bay without the risks.

We want to "protect" ourselves instead of "growing."

WE WANT TO "PROTECT" our jobs when we should be working at them. We want to "protect" our environment when we should be using the resources God gave us.

God did not intend this earth to remain "unchanged."

Watch the Yukon after a spring runoff; it's devastating!

ENTIRE NEW RIVERWAYS are cut through the fragile landscape, forests are wiped out, salmon-spawning streams are left to dry up.

God constantly changes the environment with droughts, tornadoes, weather patterns.

Our Arctic was once our tropics!

The ocean was once in Salt Lake City.

St. Augustine volcano exploded this year producing millions of tons of volcanic ash that blanketed hundreds of square miles of Alaska. Anchorage, 140 miles away, was darkened.

HICKEL IS CONVINCED that nature was meant to be harnessed and used; that if we follow the standpat, no-grow philosophy to its ultimate, we'll all have to return to a cave without a match. For a match is made of sulphur and sulphur has to be mined, whether the ecologically paranoid like it or not.

God made the world, but man made Holland and Venice, the Great Pyramids and St. Peter's in Rome.

Our forefathers changed the environment when they built Washington, D.C., and Mt. Rushmore and the farms which feed the world.

Far reaching decision

The verdict Wednesday by U. S. District Judge Jack Roberts that today's system of distributing state education money based only on the value of the district's real estate property is unconstitutional may eventually reshape the state's methods of providing school, city and county support.

LEANDER AND ST. AUGUSTINE school boards had sued the Texas Education Agency, asking that August payments to school districts be halted, which Judge Roberts refused to do. He did, however, agree with the argument that intangible assets such as bank accounts, savings accounts, bonds, jewelry and so forth should be taxed. He stopped just short of scrapping the entire school finance plan now in effect, at least for the time.

He ruled that the present system of distributing funds supporting education violates the federal Equal Protection Clause of the Constitution. His ruling will be appealed, of course, and it will probably take a couple of years before it could have any effect.

TAXING INTANGIBLES has long been discussed at length with the chief argument against it being the difficulty of collecting. "Why would people keep their money in Texas banks," the question is asked, "if it was to be taxed? Why not moving the savings account to another state where it would not be taxed?"

Nevertheless, a bunch of money would be created by a tax on intangibles because many accounts — such as regular operational funds — couldn't easily be shifted. Bankers and many other businessmen would fight such a tax right down to the wire, probably even preferring to see a personal income and/or state corporation income tax substituted.

FOR MANY YEARS our leading politicians have declaimed that ad valorem taxes should be done away with. Now comes the Leander school board to force the issue, and, with Judge Robert's ruling, may be more effective than all the stump promises delivered in the past hundred years.

Just off hand, we would estimate that more people would resent a tax on their bank accounts than now do the tax on their real estate. What's

FOCUS

Is anybody out there?

By Robert C. Cowen

Astronomer Michael D. Papagiannis wants to probe the asteroid belt for signs of intelligent alien beings. If they aren't there, he says, they probably don't exist anywhere else in the Galaxy.

To believers in ETI (the widespread existence of Extraterrestrial Intelligence) Dr. Papagiannis's fall from faith typifies a regrettable heresy. It seems especially ironic that it would be developing just when the United States seems ready to launch a full-fledged SETI (Search for ETI) program.

Nevertheless, Dr. Papagiannis's studies at Boston University convince him that space colonization is easy. He thinks a technologically advanced civilization would sweep through the Galaxy in what, cosmically speaking, is a wink of an eye.

That being the case, he asks, "Where are they?" He notes there is no sign of aliens here, unless they are living in the asteroid belt in space stations we have mistaken for orbiting hunks of rock.

"Either the entire Galaxy is teeming with intelligent life, and hence our solar system must have been colonized hundreds of millions of years ago, or there are no other inhabitants in our solar system and hence most probably neither anywhere else in the Galaxy, placing man in a very unique position," Dr. Papagiannis reasons.

Other new skeptics

This is quite a comedown for a one-time ETI believer. But the BU astronomer is not alone. One of the high priests of the ETI faith, Soviet astrophysicist I. S. Shklovskii, who did much to convince the scientific community of the plausibility of the ETI, has also joined the skeptics.

However, ETI enthusiasts are not so easily swayed.

"I think they're falling off the band wagon prematurely," says Robert Edelson, who is finishing up plans for a SETI project at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. If final NASA approval comes through, JPL's 85-foot radiotelescope at Goldstone, California, will begin a systematic search at 1.4 to 25 gigahertz (billions of cycles a second) for ETI radio signals. That's about a fourth of the "most plausible" frequency band for searching. "The technology for a proper ETI search is just now becoming available," Dr. Edelson says.

"The majority don't feel like that," says John Billingham, speaking of the new skepticism. "But there will always be a few who do feel that way." Dr. Billingham heads the SETO program office of the NASA Ames Research Center, which soon will release a comprehensive study of SETI options for the United States.

And at Cornell University, radio astronomer Frank Drake, who led the first SETI ever conducted, says academician Shklovskii "is suffering from psychological shock. He's a physicist who has suddenly discovered the wonders of biology and thinks it must be unique to Earth."

'Space colony' weighed

Dr. Drake is not at all surprised we have seen no alien visitors. He notes that Dr.

Papagiannis is impressed by the space colony concept developed by Princeton University physicist Gerard K. O'Neill and spelled out in the "Space Settlements" design study report released last spring by NASA.

Dr. Papagiannis thinks that, powered by nuclear energy, such colonies could accelerate to a few percent of the speed of light and drift away to another star system in a few hundred years. This would start an outreach that, eventually, would carry a proliferation of colonies across the Galaxy in a few million years — a brief moment of time compared to the 10 billion-year age of the Galaxy.

Dr. Drake thinks such colonies too costly. It's cheaper to make interstellar contact by radio, he says. Or, he adds, the seeming absence of aliens in the solar system may reflect a galactic ethic of noninterference.

While ETI believers argue with the skeptics, they do agree with Dr. Papagiannis that the question of whether or not we are alone is epochal. "It is important to know the answer either way. It could be quite significant for us," says Dr. Billingham. It would be "quite a responsibility to know that we are the torch bearers of the flame of cosmic consciousness in our entire galaxy," says Dr. Papagiannis.

'It's hard to believe that such a beautiful guy needs a bath'

The Christian Science Monitor

Letters

Dear editor:

Last week in your editorial you mentioned the traffic light that stays on all the time on 15th Street. You will be interested to know that this has been an irritant to me for several years. I was so disturbed by this light that I wrote the City Council a few years ago. They promptly wrote back to me with the answer that it would cost too much to turn it off.

The people of Georgetown — especially east Georgetown — ought to rise up and ask that they be considered in this decision. It costs the citizen every time he has to stop his car in time and gasoline. We have gotten ourselves into an energy crisis because we have been extravagant in small things; and we won't get out of it unless we start saving energy in small ways.

I find reading the SUN a real delight. In fact you will be interested to know that I usually read the SUN before my Austin paper. And even though I have not lived in Georgetown for 25 years and don't know many of the people, I still find it good reading. Keep up the good work!

Sincerely yours,
Wallace H. Carlson

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

By Bill Kidd

AUSTIN — Those recent events culminating here in the resignation of Don Yarbrough from the State Supreme Court have led to some renewed interest in whether Texas needs to change the way of picking its judges.

There's not likely to be any change, however, despite whatever talk there is.

Texans have demonstrated that while they're aware that they may not be as well informed as they could or should be about who's running for the bench, they're not willing to have anyone else do the job for them.

WHETHER TO ELECT or appoint judges has been a matter of debate for a long time.

There are problems with either approach, of course, and no wholly satisfactory method is possible.

Even new Supreme Court Justice Charles Barrow, who won by gubernatorial appointment what he lost at the polls, doesn't feel that there's any great need to change the system.

Barrow told members of the Senate Nominations Subcommittee (who naturally wanted to know if he had qualms about accepting appointment to the post which he failed to gain in the November election) that he's still basically a fan of the election process.

He was elected to the Court of Civil Appeals in San Antonio, he noted, after persuading Gov. Price Daniel to hold off on appointing someone to that post (which Barrow's father had held — until his death in a car accident).

His loss to Yarbrough, he feels, was more a misunderstanding — a breakdown in communication — than rejection by the voters.

Other members of the Supreme Court must share Barrow's feeling, in varying degrees.

ODDLY ENOUGH, five of the present nine members of the state's highest court first came to that body by appointment rather than election.

Chief Justice Joe Green Hill joined the court as an appointee of Gov. Price Daniel in October, 1957, the Texas Judicial Council reports.

Daniel also appointed Zollie Steakley — and became himself a member by appointment of Gov. Preston Smith, allowing him to serve with two men he first named to the same bench.

JUSTICE TOM REAVLEY was appointed by John Connally — and now Barrow by Dolph Briscoe.

Sears McGee was elected for his first term — after having lost to Jack Pope. Justices James Denton and Sam Johnson also were elected for their first terms.

House Judiciary Chairman Rep. Ben Z. Grant, Marshall, discussed the need for a "pragmatic solution" to the question of selection versus election in a recent article in the journal of the Texas Trial Lawyers.

In that article, Grant notes that in a 1973 poll of the State Bar, a majority favored a non-partisan approach to election of judges over either a "merit plan" or selection or the present partisan system of election.

The same article notes that the Supreme Court of Texas "has opated, to a great extent, on an appointive system."

"Frequently, members of the Supreme Court approaching retirement age retire before the end of their term of office, leaving a vacancy for the governor to fill until the next regular election."

That, of course, gives the office an incumbent — and with one exception, incumbents have always won.

Since 1945, Grant reports, the year the court was expanded to nine members, only one-third of its members have come initially by election.

And, he notes, rarely is an incumbent opposed.

THERE ARE FEW ISSUES, apart from qualifications, which can be raised in a judicial race — and the cost $100,000 for a "poor boy" campaign, Barrow says) for a statewide race is high.

Grant suggests a sensible approach would be to have single-member districts for Supreme Court members — noting that such a plan is used in Louisiana.

The cost would be less, and voters would know more about the candidate, he argues.

In fact, Grant says, he may offer that as a constitutional amendment to the next Legislature — if anyone is still interested then.

STATE Capital NEWS

AUSTIN — Atty. Gen. John Hill and Gov. Dolph Briscoe have rival polls which convince them they can win the 1978 governor's race.

Hill's pollsters concede Briscoe is still out front, but they claim his advantage of incumbency is receding.

The attorney general's pollsters, the Hill survey maintains, "is to penetrate the consciousness of the masses who don't know him, to impress them favorably and to gain their support while maintaining the support of those who already prefer him over Briscoe."

The Hill poll concluded in one segment that 44 per cent of likely Democratic primary voters surveyed favored Briscoe, while 29 per cent favored Hill, and 27 per cent were undecided.

Pollsters for Hill also found a majority of voters are balky about re-electing a governor who would have served 10 years in office by the end of his next four-year term.

Briscoe's campaign manager said the governor has lost no basic strength and even has made gains since Former Gov. Preston Smith is regarded as another possible candidate for governor in the 1978 Democratic primary election.

Judges Busy

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals judges and commissioners wrote nearly 19 times as many opinions as State Supreme Court justices last year, according to Texas Judicial Council statistics.

The top criminal court judges turned out 2,177 opinions, compared with 115 (and 667 dispositions of applications for writs of error) by the nine Supreme Court justices.

Fourteen courts of civil appeals wrote 1,562 opinions last year, while 329,373 cases were disposed of in 261 district, domestic relations and special juvenile courts—a two per cent increase over 1975.

Another 286,415 cases were disposed of in county courts, and 918,000 traffic cases were filed in reporting justice of the peace courts — 70 per cent of all cases for the j.p.s.

The Court of Criminal Appeals must write an opinion in every case it decides.

Economizing?

Twenty per cent of Texas visitors traveling by auto last spring stayed in homes of friends or relatives.

The percentage is five times above the in-home visiting level last year.

In spite of generosity of Texas hosts, the visitors did lots of spending, however. The average group traveling by car left $443.46 in the state, an increase of more than $40 above the spring of 1976.

The visitors stayed an average of 10.2 days this spring, 9.91 days in 1976.

Courts Speak

The State Supreme Court unanimously removed from office District Judge Garth C. Bates of Houston, who was convicted of accepting a bribe.

In other recent action, the high court:

Invalidated an antiquities code provision used to stop demolition of three downtown Dallas buildings.

A federal judge ordered a stay of execution for Wilbur Charles Collins sentenced to die in the electric chair Sunday for killing a Waco convenience store operator. The State Court of Criminal Appeals earlier had turned down the stay.

AG Opinions

In guidelines to the legislature on school finance, Atty. Gen. John Hill noted that property taxes must be assessed on the basis of market value and that one kind of property cannot be assessed at a lower percentage of value than others.

Hill said he would have to see a specific bill on school tax values before he could decide its constitutionality.

In another recent opinion, Hill held Dallas school district information on disciplinary action against students involving corporal punishment is open to the public, as is certain other data on teachers, administrators and student body composition.

Short Snorts

Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie has decided to remain in office until an investigation of his department is completed, but he says he has not ruled out a Senate race.

fair will have to be decided by the courts, however.

Ribbon-cutting marks opening of Draeger Ford building

Draeger Ford-Mercury officially celebrated the grand opening of its new building in Georgetown with a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 11:15 Friday.

Mayor John Doerfler performed ribbon cutting duties at the 22,500 square-foot facility located at 500 Austin Avenue.

Ford Assistant District Manager, Joe Dylag, remarked how beautiful the building was and called it "the finest in the Houston district for a dealership this size."

Ford District Manager, Archie Buddin, presented Bennie Draeger with a "Golden Shovel Award," noting that next April, Draeger will have been in the automobile business twenty years.

Draeger told those assembled that "the good citizens of Georgetown made it all possible."

Others attending the grand opening of Draeger Ford-Mercury included City Manager Leo Wood, Councilman Carl Doering, and Hospital Administrator Kenneth Poteete.

First Texas Bancorp gets OK on Copperas Cove Bank

"Final approval has been granted by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System to First Texas Bancorp, Inc., Georgetown, to acquire 100% of the outstanding shares of the First National Bank, Copperas Cove (In Organization)" Jay C. Sloan, President of First Texas Bancorp, announced this week.

While in organization, First National Bank is proceeding as rapidly as possible to finish completion of its new building located on Highway 190 in the Cove Terrace Shopping Center.

"We are most pleased to get this next to the last major step accomplished," Sloan said, "the final step being the completion of the building and moving into it, tentatively scheduled for October."

First Texas Bancorp, a Central Texas holding company, headquartered in Georgetown, in addition to the First National Bank, Copperas Cove, is composed of four banks — American State Bank, Killeen; First National Bank, Lampasas; First National Bank of Round Rock; and Citizens State Bank, Georgetown.

Lake construction develops at 30 percent ahead of plans

"We are running about 30 percent ahead of schedule," R. E. Biggs, project engineer of the North Fork Lake construction, said Wednesday, "and at the present time we are about 76 percent complete."

The engineer added that the project is scheduled to be at the 46 percent completion mark this week and that the workers are 356 days ahead of plans.

"By the end of next week," Biggs said, "we hope to be at the conservation pool level on the dam and completion of the project is estimated to be in May of 1978."

Much of the work will still be left even after the dam itself is completed, the engineer explained, because the Corps of Engineers is also going to build roads, a service bridge to the intake structure, and develop the camping and recreational facilities, after the dam is finished.

"There will be three high use parks around the lake," Biggs said, "which will be easily accessible by paved roadways."

He added that three low-use parks are always going to be developed that will only be accessible by water or hiking trails. A wildlife sanctuary is also designed into the plan. "We haven't let the clearing contracts for any of the recreational facilities," Biggs said, "but we will sometime soon."

REMEMBERING...

By BILL D. BROOKS

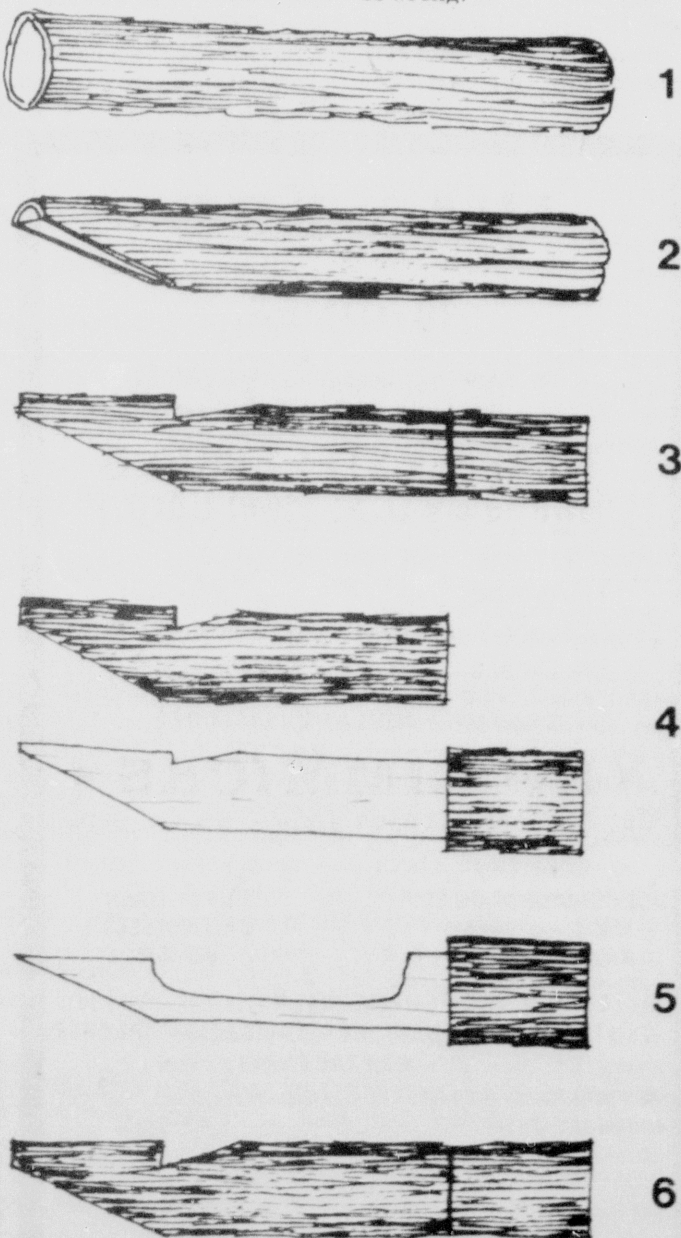

TREE LIMB WHISTLES

Back when I was growing up the only toys lots of kids had were the ones they made for themselves. One we made quite often was the tree limb whistle.

Dad showed me how to make the first one I ever saw. He took a green limb (a little bit bigger than the kind you made switches with) from the elm tree in our back yard. (1) He cut off a section about three inches long that was about as big around as your finger. (2) One end was then tapered to make a mouth piece. (3) A small notch was cut in the top part through the bark into the wood just above and in front of the mouthpiece, then near the other end a cut was made through the bark all the way around the limb. (4) Next came the hard part. With the back of the pocket knife handle he whacked the bark a bunch of times all over the end with the mouthpiece. He would hold it up and inspect it then whack it some more. Then he carefully took the limb and twisted it in his hands 'til the bark on that end just slipped right off! (5) The slick, white wood left exposed was then hollowed out. (6) The bark was very carefully slipped back in place just as it had come off and the whistle was ready to blow.

We were very enthused about the possibilities of this project and immediately set about to make more. We tried several different types of tree limbs and found that some worked and some didn't. Willow worked as well as elm, cottonwood was fair but mesquite and hack-berry were no good at all. We also found that at certain times of the year the bark slipped off better. I think it was in the spring but I may be wrong.

We made big ones and little ones and found that the sound (Mother called it noise) could be varied by how the notch was cut and how the limb was hollowed out. We sometimes cut round holes in the bark to make a sort of flute. You could make different notes by covering different holes with your fingers. We even made one from a tree trunk once. We had a devil of a time getting the bark to slip but when we were finished it looked pretty neat. The only problem was nobody had enough wind to blow it. My brother made one from the fork of a limb. He made a whistle on all three ends and each one sounded different.

I remember they were fun to make and fun to use. I think I'll go make one right now. You might want to try one too.

DISCOVER 4-H

By CAROLYN BONNER
& EDWARD WILKIE

Elaine Lange of Thrall, Michael Lidell of Jonah and Gayle Brister of Taylor, along with some 600 senior 4-H youth from across Texas, learned about "Oceans of Opportunity" at the 1977 Texas 4-H Congress. That's the theme of the annual event that was held July 19-22 at the LaQuinta Royale Motor Inn in Corpus Christi.

This year's Congress was designed to help 4-H'ers learn about our vast marine industry and our marine resources.

FEATURED talks dealt with "Man and the Sea" and "Future of the Sea." Special discussion concerned non-renewable and renewable resources from the sea, marine biology, and maritime career opportunities.

A major highlight of this year's Congress was a variety of tours designed to provide valuable learning experiences for 4-H members. Among these were tours of Rockport, Aransas Pass, Corpus Christi public elevators, Jackson Marine, Corpus Christi Compress, Baker Marine Corporation-DuPont, Texas University Marine Science Institute, Brown and Root-DuPont, Producers Grain Port Terminal, U. S. Coast Guard, sports fishing, Southwest Research Institute, Central Power and Light Co., Texas A&M University Marine Resources, port of Corpus Christi, Marine Drilling Co., and Boyd-Campbell, Inc.

OTHER highlights of the Congress included a Texas seafood barbecue, a beach party and the annual Congress Ball.

The Congress was under the direction of the Texas 4-H Council, which is composed of the chairman and vice-chairman of each of the 14 district 4-H councils and four representatives at-large.

SOMEWHERE between the sternness of a parent and the comradeship of a pal is that mysterious creature we call a 4-H leader.

These leaders come in all shapes and sizes, and may be male or female. But they all have one thing in common—a glorious twinkle in their eyes.

THE 4-H Leaders are found everywhere—at judging contests, junior fairs, square dances, and talent shows. They always are preparing for, sitting through, participating in, or recuperating from a meeting of some kind. They are tireless consumers of muffins, expert at taking knots out of thread, peerless coaches, and they spend hours on the telephone.

HOSPITAL FUND Chairman J. H. "Buster" Compton (L) accepts a $5,000 check at the new hospital from Bode McCormick, plant foreman for the Georgetown office of General Telephone. The phone company contribution brings the total hospital fund to approximately $507,000, and although that is well over the goal, contributions are still coming in and still being taken. With Compton and McCormick are Hospital Administrator Ken Potete (second from left), General Telephone Customer Service Manager Carl Kinslow and Jay Sloan.

President declares Farm Safety Week

"Every year hundreds of thousands of farm and ranch residents suffer unnecessary injury and sometimes disability and death from accidents on the farm," said President Carter in a proclamation designating the week of July 25-31 as National Farm Safety Week.

Recognizing that accident injuries and property damage are an economic drain on farm and ranch income potentials, the theme for the week will be "Safety Is a Good Investment."

"The Texas Agricultural Extension Service fully agrees with the cost savings theme of Farm Safety Week," said Dr. Gary S. Nelson, an Extension safety engineer, "and we will be giving it our full support."

Nelson added that it is good to recognize that in addition to saving lives and preventing injuries, a small investment in accident prevention may prevent larger insurance and medical costs, equipment damage, and associated production loss expenses involving lack of labor and equipment or time delays resulting from accidents.

In his proclamation, President Carter urged producers to commit themselves to safe conduct in all activities. He further urged all who work with and serve agricultural producers to assist and support them in providing safe equipment and chemicals for use on the farm.

Smith of Floresville, Miss Judy Starnes (granddaughter) of San Antonio, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Fuller (granddaughter) and their children, Terri, Asa Ralph, Bronson, and Ruth of Floresville; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Starnes (son) and their son Mr. and Mrs. Leland Starnes and their sons Bobby Lee and Joel of Leander. The other son, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Starnes and their son David came from Agua Dulce.

Gayland Starnes (son) of Mineral Wells and his daughters Mr. and Mrs. Randall Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Hyatt, and his son Jimmy Starnes all of Austin, and guests Bobby Bryson of Leander, Mrs. Ina Freeman of Mineral Wells and Mrs. Jean Starnes of Austin also attended.

Park hosts Starnes clan

A family reunion of former Williamson County residents Walter and Mollie McBride Starnes was held Sunday July 17, 1977 in Georgetown Park.

The following attended: Mr. and Mrs. W. B. McBride (daughter), and her daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Ullom and their son Robert of Corpus Christi, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Bronson Starnes (son) and their son Mitchell Starnes of Laredo, and daughter Jackie Starnes of Austin; John Woodson Starnes (son) of Zapata, Mrs. Imogene Palmer (daughter) of Burnet, her son John Palmer of Glendora, California, and her daughter Mr. and Mrs. Val Beard and their daughters Rhonda and Robin of Denison, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Russell

Newspaper fund

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — Journalism is more than the world of such "biggies" as the New York Times or Washington Post.

In that regard, the former owner of a Texas weekly newspaper has set up a $10,000 scholarship fund in The University of Texas Journalism Department for students who are interested in entering the community or weekly journalism field.

Carl R. Miller, who owned the Raymondville Chronicle-News, and his wife, donated the fund which will provide an annual $500 award to a student Mr. Miller believes community journalism should be emphasized in a journalist's training.

Florence Church to host meeting

The Florence Church of Christ will be conducting a gospel meeting July 24-29.

Services will be held on Sunday at 10:45 a.m. and 6 p.m. and the weekday services will be at 8 p.m.

Florence Church of Christ is located just off Hwy. 195 in Florence.

Rodger Weems, Minister of the Central Church of Christ in Victoria, will deliver a special message. Weems graduated with his Masters Degree in Bible from Abilene Christian College in 1975.

On Sunday, July 24, Kenneth Sneed of Victoria will be leading the singing. During the week night services Jim Lipe of Florence will be leading the singing. Also, immediately following the morning service of July 24 there will be dinner on the grounds.

Everyone is urged to attend to each of the services. Visitors are always welcome.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

A song and a sword! No Christian should be without a song for the mouth and a sword for the hand. Psalm 149:6 urges, "Let the high praises of God be in their mouth, and a two-edged sword in their hand."

Strange? Oh, no! Jesus always kept a sword in His hand. But that sword was "the sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God."

One day Jesus and Satan came face to face. For forty days and forty nights Jesus ate nothing and became very tired. Then Satan tempted Him.

With every attack Jesus used the sword of the Spirit by saying, "It is written," and defeated him. Jesus proved once and for all that the Word of God in the heart and hand is the best defense against sin.

When Edward VI was crowned king of England, Ireland, and Scotland various swords were presented to him at the ceremony to indicate the threefold kingdom.

But he said, "One thing is missing." "What's that?" asked one. "The sword of the Spirit," he replied. "Without the Bible we are nothing and achieve nothing."

Do you have this song and this sword?

August to be observed as Immunization Action Month

A gift that lasts a lifetime and perhaps may save the life of the receiver will be offered all Texans during August.

The gift is immunizations against the serious, even life-threatening diseases which continue to plague mankind. Remember polio, diphtheria, measles, rubella (German measles), tetanus (lockjaw), whooping cough (pertussis), mumps? They're still with us and are always looking for a susceptible person—someone who hasn't been immunized against them.

August will be observed as Immunization Action Month in Texas as part of a nationwide campaign this year to immunize all those in need of protection. The Texas Department of Health is spearheading the Immunization Action Month, aided by Mrs. Dolph Briscoe's First Lady's Volunteer Program.

While all immunizations will be stressed during the campaign, the theme of this year's program will be,

"Immunization Isn't Just Kid Stuff."

Texans other than just children do need immunizations, and emphasis will be given to these other groups. Special attention will be given to older persons who should be protected against disease, particularly tetanus; youngsters and young adults who received measles immunizations before reaching their first birthdays; and prospective mothers who need protection against rubella to safeguard possible birth defects of their future children.

During the past few months, more red measles cases have been occurring across Texas than have been experienced in several years. Much of this is in young adults-teenagers.

Health scientists feel that children who were immunized against measles before their first birthdays have only limited protection unless they receive a booster vaccination. When exposed to the disease, they have come down with an infection, although symptoms of the disease may be less severe.

Adults need booster vaccinations against diphtheria and tetanus every ten years throughout their lives, since these diseases can be as devastating to an adult as a child.

Rubella is another disease which can be dangerous to some adults, specifically pregnant women. Although the mother recovers, the fetus can be severely affected. A blood test is available to determine whether a woman of child-bearing age is susceptible to rubella and should be vaccinated before pregnancy occurs. Special efforts will be made during Immunization Action Month, as well as September and October, to test young females.

During August, special efforts will be made in child care institutions across Texas to bring immunization levels up among children attending these centers. Department of Public Welfare personnel will be instrumental in getting information to child care centers and in notifying welfare recipients of the need for immunization.

All of the immunizations against these dangerous diseases are available, free of charge, from public health clinics operated by local health departments and Texas as Public Health Regions. Immunizations also may be obtained from most private physicians for their standard fees.

The Department of Health wants all children, teenagers and adults to be properly and completely immunized. During August, the Department asks you to remember that "Immunization Isn't Just Kid Stuff."

JANE REYNOLDS

Mrs. Lura Beaty, Mrs. Pearl Graves and Mrs. Gertrude Hargrove have a lot in common, especially relatives. Mrs. Beaty and Mrs. Hargrove are sisters, and Mrs. Graves's late husband was their brother. So, when one has company they often have a mini-reunion. Last week such a gathering took place. Their sister, Mrs. Roger Gilleland of Cisco, and her grandson Duke Gilleland and his wife came to spend several hours "catching up" and reminiscing. What a pleasant sight it was!

Last Sunday at dinner one of the round guest tables was surrounded by teachers—all in one family. Mrs. Mary Ethel McLennan beamingly introduced her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McLennan of Austin, and her two sisters, Miss Ada McLennan of McAllen and Mrs. Mildred Halcom of Mercedes. How many children and young people have had their lives enriched and their skills sharpened by the dedicated work of this one family!

The new House Council has met and elected officers. They are president, Mrs. Edna McMasters; vice president, Miss Bess Crews; secretary, Mrs. Fae Tandy; and treasurer, Grafton Griffing. Mrs. Boatright told me she is the best politician because she got everyone else elected. Then we informed her that the Committees appointed by the council do most of the work and that they usually appoint council members who are not officers to head the committees. Just joshing, of course.

Mrs. L. R. Armstrong of Florence, and Mrs. Lester Burgess of New Braunfels visited Miss Lola Wales. Mrs. Ruth Wambaugh's caller was her nephew, Kim Brookshire of Dallas. Mr. and Mrs. Buck Francis of Corpus Christi visited his aunt, Mrs. Lochie Smith. Another aunt, Mrs. Lucille Francis, lived here five years ago. How fortunate he is to have had two such lovely women for his aunts!

Monday afternoon was busy, busy, busy. Quilting in the basement and "Name That Tune" on fourth floor. In the basement, the quilting frame given by Mrs. Margaret Green, daughter of Mrs. Marjorie Lewis, was assembled with much reading of instructions, and then the quilt top and lining donated by Verna Lea Harrison, with batting purchased by the Home, were appropriately stretched over the frame. And the work of basting it around the edges began. Mrs. Weber and volunteer Chick McCraw really worked at this operation. The next day Mrs. McRee was industriously working at the quilt. It will be left in place so that any resident can work at any time during the day when the notion strikes. This is something several residents have been wanting to do for a long time. Now, thanks to our friends, it is possible.

At the same time, on fourth floor, Mrs. Lela Mae Ischy was gathering her records, the record player was in place, and many residents were assembling for a test of their musical memories. All kinds of music was played and everybody had such a good time that nobody wanted to stop. So they kept on playing long past the time to quit. Mrs. Stella Tegge was first place tune-namer, with sixteen right answers. Mrs. Marjorie Lewis was second with nine, and Mrs. Anna Thompson named five for fifth place.

Also present and taking active part were Mrs. Margaret Richey, Judge Sam Stone, Mrs. Annie Ahlberg, Rev. and Mrs. O. W. Moerner, Mrs. J. Coy Williams, Mrs. Jonie Clark, Mrs. Gertrude Balbach, Mrs. Mary Thomson, and Mrs. Mamie Hall. Mrs. Ischy was director of the game. Mrs. Richter was there, but she didn't know many of the tunes and was told, "You're not old enough."

A lovable youngster about three years old came in with two ladies last week. When I spoke, he slid around behind his mother and looked at me with friendly, but guarded, eyes. He was Chip Lewis, just arrived (with his mother) from Aberdeen, Scotland, where their husband and father, S. C. Lewis, is working with the North Sea oil drilling project. Mrs. Lewis is the granddaughter of Mrs. McMasters. The other lady with Chip was his great-aunt, Mrs. O. C. Schlinke of Fort Bragg, N.C. Mrs. McMaster's daughter. They had not planned the reunion, but were delighted to find that they had all happened to visit Texas and the Wesleyan at the same time. That's pretty far for E.S.P. to operate, isn't it?

Along with entertainment, athletics has been a traditional way for minorities to work their way into the mainstream of American life. This may be one reason why blacks now dominate the sports scene. Blacks won all the U.S. gold medals in boxing at the 1976 Montreal Olympic Games and 22 of our 31 track-and-field medals. Nearly 65 percent of National Basketball Association players are black, as are 42 percent of National Football League players.

Through an Irish window

"The difference between landscape and landscape is small, but there is a great difference in the beholders."

— Ralph Waldo Emerson

Not far from Ballinasloe, I threw a soaking blast of Irish wind into a farmer's kitchen. The wind, the foreigner's voice, and the dripping dog, slipping past my feet, were all accepted with a nod, easy additions to a family busy with baking and mending, repairing a clock and comparing hurley sticks in the gentle light of a turf fire.

I asked directions. "You've turned your back on it," said the farmer.

This polite Irishman made his point. I was not lost, nor was my destination. I had turned my back on Lisdoona Manor and could turn again. I relaxed, relieved to hear that not only was I not far off target — but that however puzzling the roads might seem to me, they were not playing tricks, and that Lisdoona Manor was planted in precisely the same spot tonight as for the past few centuries.

In the black Irish night without even a poachers' moon, with the only light splintering from the rain against the old Peugeot's windscreen, I had missed two turns carefully listed just that morning over a faint, shared telephone.

My dinner and bed would be waiting, my doubts and minute checking unknown to my hosts. My new farmer friend Patrick Donlon was absolutely sure of that, as he sketched first one road to my night's lodging and then a second road.

To offer two routes, each equally short, each just as tightly cupped by the night, doubly satisfied Patrick Donlon and his family. Convinced only by the Donlon's conviction, I set out, knowing that, once I had turned back on myself, either fork past the white stone church would put me right.

True to Patrick Donlon's word, my dinner was waiting. Carrot soup, roast mutton, and apple sauce well spiced with thick slices of orange peel. The meat, vegetables, all but the bitter orange, came from the land of Lisdoona Manor.

The double horseshoe staircase — a necklace of stairs curving up and around to both left and right above me — presented another choice. I chose one side, knowing either would serve as well, and found my bed, warmed with a polished brass warming bottle.

Morning brought more proof that we can be deceived by our own eyes and doubts. No sign remained of last night's blackness which had forced me to see the road through Patrick Donlon's eyes and to trust an Irishman's convictions. My six by four foot window's wavy glass held a lake and mist-steaming mountains firm between a sweep of eye-green lawns and wet-white cloud.

No camera could frame this view. This was a picture not made for camera-boxing, for the elimination of dimensions, perspectives and alternatives. Ireland stood there before me, unmoved, even if I turned my back on it. The lake and mountains outside, the fresh bed and flowered water pitcher within, were convictions of unchanging values which cannot be shaken. The focus cannot blur. The patterns of this view from an Irish window are established, ready waiting for the viewer.

FIFTH AND SIXTH GRADE students at First United Methodist Church participated in outdoor activities at a day camp while younger boys and girls were busy with Vacation Church School at the church last week. The day campers worked with crafts, fished, swam, canoed, and explored at the Benold farm on Berry Creek. Here Mrs. Connie Venable, day camp coordinator, and her son Paul pick wild grapes to be used in a Methodist Youth Fellowship project.

GHS vocational director to be honored in Dallas

James W. Cairnes, Vocational Director at Georgetown High School, will be honored by the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association of Texas in Dallas, August 2, according to Dick Vestal Baird, President of the organization.

Cairnes is being recognized for his 25 years of service to the Vocational Agriculture program in Texas. He graduated in Kerrville at Tivy High School, served two years of military service, then attended Tarleton State University in Stephenville, Texas A&M University and Colorado A&M.

The award will be presented at the Annual Awards Program of the Association.

The program is held during the State In-Service Education Workshop for Vocational Agriculture teachers and the 1977 Workshop will emphasize staying up with the changes in today's modern Agriculture. Leaders in Agriculture and Education from throughout the state and nation will participate in the four-day In-Service Education meeting. Education features of the meeting will be under the direction of J. A. Marshall, Director of Agriculture Education, Texas Education Agency in Austin. Marshall will be assisted by G. G. Scroggins, Assistant Director, Agriculture Education, TEA.

Cairnes taught Vocational Agriculture in Abernathy

High School and also in the Luling Foundation program in Smiley, Texas, before coming to Georgetown. He taught Voc. Ag. ten years in Georgetown before he became Vocational Director for the Georgetown Independent School District.

Approximately 1600 Vocational Agriculture Teachers and friends are expected to attend the Dallas meeting, with headquarters in the Baker and Adolphus Hotels. Registration for the meeting begins at 3:00 p. m. Monday, August 1.

Local scouts depart for national ranch

Eleven Georgetown area Boy Scouts have departed for a high-adventure backpacking trip to the mountains of the Philmont Scout Ranch and Explorer Base in northeastern New Mexico.

The scouts are William Pecht, Greg Miech, Jim Blythe, Randall Williams, Wes Lansdale, Hans Venable, Scott Shirley and Trey Brunt of Georgetown of Georgetown Troop 151; Craig Price and Bobby Simmons of Georgetown Troop 155; and Russel Hall of Round Rock Troop 522.

These local boys make up Crew 1, the largest crew of the 1977 Capitol Area Council Philmont Expedition that consists of 60 boys and seven adult leaders in six crews. The adult leader of Crew 1 is Art Johnston of Georgetown.

The Philmont expedition left Austin at 5:30 a.m. on Friday, July 22. The group will travel to Philmont by bus. Enroute to the 214-square mile ranch the scouts will spend the night at Texas State Technical Institute in Amarillo.

When they arrive at the ranch on July 23, the expedition will meet with their ranger who will lead and train them on the trails for the first three days of their wilderness trek. The scouts will backpack 50-70 miles at 7,000 to 11,500 foot altitudes.

On the Philmont trails, the scouts will participate in various programs offered in many mountain camps by more than 400 trained staff members. These programs include earth science, gold panning, rock climbing, archeological study and digging, burro packing, and horseback riding.

The Capitol Area Expedition will leave Philmont August 4. On their return trip, they will stop overnight at Reese AFB in Lubbock.

Arriving home August 5, these scouts will be counted among the 275,000 other scouts who have met the rugged Philmont challenge.

Round Rock alderman request portion of gas tax for cities

Don Wilson, Round Rock alderman place 4 recently sent a letter to Governor Dolph Briscoe asking that the special call session of the 65th legislature be broadened to include a bill that would leave 1¢ of the 5¢ state tax on each gallon of gasoline in the cities.

Wilson, a 32-year old member of the Round Rock City Council said, "The cities need help. A penny for paving is the most logical way to do it without increasing taxes."

He added that over 90 percent of the gasoline taxes are paid by people buying gasoline inside a city. Over 20 percent of the driving is done on city streets, but none of the tax money is spent to maintain city streets.

"It's time for the cities to get our share of the gasoline tax money so that we can provide good streets."

Good year forecast for deer

It's a fine year for deer in the Hill Country. Weather conditions have been just right to produce the food for the animals to flourish and to develop good antlers, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

George Litton, wildlife regional director, explained that it used to be thought that spring rains were the dominant factor for healthy deer herds. The situation in the past two years has indicated otherwise.

IN THE WINTER OF 1975-76, from November until February, a severe dry spell caused deer foods to be at a very low ebb. Conditions improved when ample rains came in March 1976 and were good up until deer season last fall; however, the deer grew poor antlers.

It was widely reported there were few bucks. This was because the antlers on many bucks were barely protruding and many animals did not get harvested because hunters did not recognize them as bucks.

Those same bucks now are, in large part, the reason for reports of an abundant buck population this year. Not all bucks being seen now are last year's fawns, Litton emphasized. Last year's adult bucks that were not harvested now also are carrying large, well-formed antlers.

THIS HAS COME about because weather conditions this past winter in the Edwards Plateau were different from those of the previous one. There was continuously abundant moisture from December 1976 until spring of this year.

It is too soon to make a definite statement about this year's fawn crop, Litton said.

Since conditions were excellent through the breeding season, there should be a lot of them. However, much will depend on the food supply between now and hunting season.

"If the weather should become very dry, fawns normally are the first to go, since they can't compete," he said. "But in any case there should be an excellent deer population, with very good antler development."

The Texas persimmon crop, one of the preferred deer foods, is very good this year and acorns also are expected to be numerous. One drawback of such a plentiful food supply, from the hunter's point of view, is that deer need to move around less.

Little League

Major baseball team wins, senior softball team loses

Georgetown's major little league baseball team beat Taylor 8-6 Thursday night in Austin to advance to an area semifinal game Monday.

The Monday game, a 7:30 p.m. contest at Jefferson Field, 1100 Morrow St. in Austin, is against Elgin, and the winner there will move to the finals of Area IV Wednesday.

The Georgetown senior softball team had been eliminated from area competition Wednesday night when it lost to South Austin Optimist, 24-14.

Wade Petty led the boy's hitting attack with a 3-for-3 night at the plate. Kendall Bizzell pitched for Georgetown, and went the entire six innings.

Georgetown got two three-run innings, the first and second, then added two more in the third to take an 8-0 lead. Austin scored two in the fourth and four in the sixth inning to pull within two.

Should Georgetown win the Area tournament, it would continue play against the winner of Area III in the District 11B championship Friday at 7:30 p.m., also at Jefferson Field.

The winner there would face the District 11A champion Aug. 1 in Austin for the bi-district title, with the winner of that moving to regional competition in Waco in early August.

Anna Johnson lines a pitch towards shortstop in Tuesday's major softball playoff game. Georgetown lost, 5-3.

SU women's sports has successful recruiting year

"This has been a highly successful recruiting year for Southwestern University women's athletics," said Coach Glada Munt, who is in charge of women's athletics at Southwestern.

"The emphasis of our recruitment has been in the area of basketball, due to it being the most recent addition to the women's program," she said.

Munt reported that she had been successful in signing nine of the 11 athletes she wanted to letters of intent.

THE FOUR most recent women to choose the state's oldest university as the place to continue their education include Laura Dawson, a 5-9 sophomore transfer student from San Jacinto South Junior College, Mary Klar, 5-10 graduate of Canyon High School at New Braunfels, Lisa Pennington, 5-9, from Austin McCallum and Loretta Deason, 5-3, also from Canyon High School.

Dawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dawson of Deer Park, has a record of 212 rebounds during her senior year in high school. While in high school she also picked up the honors of all-district, best defensive player, and best all-around athlete.

"I feel that she will be a tremendous asset defensively for us," said Munt. "Defensive aggressiveness, speed, and experience have really been an area of weakness for the Pirate women and Laura should take up the slack in that direction."

KLAR, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Wilson of New Braunfels, holds a game average of 31 points from her senior year performance. During that year she also had a high point game of 50. She was named to the all-zone volleyball and basketball teams for several years in a row. She owns several all-tournament awards.

Munt said that Klar is one of several athletes in her program who will play both volleyball and basketball for the Pirate women.

"She is an exceptionally gifted natural athlete and I am pleased to have her join our ranks," Munt said.

Pennington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Pennington of Austin, and a McCallum High School graduate, alternates between the positions of forward and guard and is well prepared for the full court version of basketball that college women play.

"She is a strong and aggressive player and will add the power we need to the post position of our team," said Munt.

"DON'T BE fooled by the 5-3 height of this Canyon High School graduate," she said. "Loretta Deason uses speed, aggressiveness, and accurate passing to make people forget her size and notice her talent."

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Deason Jr. of San Antonio, Deason is another of the versatile athletes Munt has signed. She gained recognition in volleyball as well as basketball her senior year with all-zone honors.

"Loretta's height is definitely not indicative of her talent. In volleyball she is one of the best defensive players to come out of the high school system," Munt said. "With her ability to return almost anything hit over the net she will add specialization to our backline."

A&M Coach to speak at Fish Fry

Emory Bellard, athletic director and head football coach at Texas A&M, will be the speaker at a fish fry in his honor Aug. 9, at the Chaparral Club, 4749 Ben White East in South Austin.

This event is sponsored by the Association of Former Students and the Capital City A&M Club.

The cost is $4.50 in advance or $5 at the door for all the fish you can eat.

Activities start at 5:30 p.m. with the Fish Fry at 7 p.m.

Tickets are available during business hours through Leon Schrank, 863-2041 or Glenn Pittsford 255-5178.

Karen Tabor breaks for third in the major girls game Tuesday. Georgetown lost that game, 5-3.

The jet-speed drive to rescue the Siberian crane

But U.S.-Soviet effort will take years to gain success

By John D. Moorhead
Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

Chicago

The cranes are flying — and so are their eggs. In an intricate strategy to save the Siberian cranes from possible extinction, four Siberian crane eggs were recently airlifted some 10,000 miles — from the tundra of Soviet Siberia to Madison, Wisconsin, where two have just hatched.

The eggs were sent to Madison because the United States, specifically the International Crane Foundation (ICF), has considerable experience raising crane eggs.

Getting the eggs to Madison took a jet airliner and piles of paperwork, representing cooperation between the Soviet Union and the U.S. State Department.

The rescue effort has a Rube Goldberg quality. Here is how it is supposed to work, according to Mildred Zantow of the ICF.

The goal is to convince some of the 362 known Siberian cranes to spend the winter in Iran instead of China or India. Iran is protecting wild marsh areas for the cranes and even preparing stretches of sedge for them to feed on.

Industrial encroachment

Farms and industries are encroaching on the vast stretches of marshland in India and China, where Siberian cranes, five feet tall and glistening white, spend the winter feeding on tasty sedge tubers.

A Siberian crane: will it survive with help?

Enter the flying eggs.

Scientists hope such eggs will be the beginning of a Siberian crane population that will keep company with another species, the "common crane," in its normal migration between Siberia and Iran.

The four eggs flown to Madison were gathered by Soviet scientists in the Siberian crane's summer habitat, the tundra of the U.S.S.R.'s Yakut region. They were taken to Moscow, where a U.S. courier picked them up and brought them to the United States July 8.

The two eggs that have just hatched produced fuzzy four-inch-high chicks. The other two eggs are not fertile and are being returned to the Soviet Union.

The two chicks will be reared at ICF headquarters in Baraboo, Wisconsin. If the two chicks are male and female — and mate, which will be in four years at the earliest — it is hoped they will produce fertile eggs. These would be taken back to Siberia and slipped into the nests of common cranes, which would be counted on to rear the chicks and teach them to migrate to Iran.

But a lot of things have to work just right if the scheme is to succeed.

Time differential

The Siberian crane eggs cannot be transferred directly to common crane nests because the two birds nest at different latitudes and at different times. So the Siberian crane eggs must be laid under artificial conditions designed to have them produced on a common-crane timetable. That is where ICF comes in.

Just about the only organization specializing in the nurture of cranes, ICF already has two Siberian cranes at Baraboo. The female laid 10 eggs this spring. None of them was fertile. The eggs were laid at just the right time for the common-crane switch, however.

The Soviet Union is expected to provide more eggs under the 1972 U.S.-U.S.S.R. Environmental Protection Agreement, and ICF staffers hope they will be able to rear a matched pair.

William Conway, general director of the New York Zoological Society, calls the plan "exciting, dramatic, and fraught with difficulty." He compares it to the current program at Cornell to breed peregrine falcons — and to the successful effort to replenish U.S. bison herds.

Computer economic forecast

By Reuter

Philadelphia

Continued high inflation and slow growth dominate the economic outlook for Britain, France, and Italy, according to computer predictions presented recently by the Wharton Economic Forecasting Associates at the University of Pennsylvania.

The projection for the United States, Japan, West Germany and Canada was relatively optimistic, forecasting moderate growth at least through 1979.

The computer projections assume there will be no policy changes by the respective governments.

Lindsay Wagner

Scraps Bionic Hardware at NBC

By DAN LEWIS

HOLLYWOOD -- Wearing a high-rise, cowboy-style hat with wide brim and decorated with sequins, Lindsay Wagner led her large entourage through the hotel lobby, enroute to a press conference NBC had arranged for her.

If she sought anonymity, the parade that followed her -- consisting of her husband, manager, secretary and personal press agent, could only serve to bring attention.

She was later to complain at a press conference arranged by NBC, where her "Bionic Woman" will seek out new adventures next season, that the series has taken away her much valued private life.

"I can only take so much as a public image," she told visiting television editors, "as opposed to being a person."

Consequently, she and her husband, Michael Brandon, rarely venture away from their home when not working.

"We hide out a lot," she confided. "You've got to accept it. I knew up front that if I became a successful actress I would lose my privacy. So I tried to prepare for it."

"The Bionic Woman" has indicated exceptional survival ability for television. It was not renewed by one network but quickly picked up by another. This is not unprecedented, particularly this season when two other series, "The Tony Randall Show" and "Wonder Woman," also were dropped by red-hot ABC, and immediately landed at rival CBS.

Miss Wagner acknowledges she was surprised that ABC dropped "The Bionic Woman." She believes that it was internal politics, rather than ratings that lead ABC to drop the show.

"Fred Silverman," president of ABC's programming division, "dropped it. I don't know why."

There has been speculation, ranging from a personal argument she is supposed to have had with Silverman, to reports that the show became too costly for marginal ratings because of Lindsay's big salary.

She reported that the day ABC cancelled the show, Silverman called her agent, Ron Samuels, who also manages his wife Lynda Carter ("Wonder Woman") and Jaclyn Smith ("Charlie's Angels"), to talk about a new deal. Ironically, she will have a variety special in the fall at ABC as part of a prior deal.

If her reportedly huge salary disenchanted ABC it apparently has not had an impact on NBC. When she filled the bionic role for an episode of "The Six-Million Dollar Man," the option on her services ran out before the network indicated it wanted the spin-off series. This put Lindsay in a most favorable bargaining position.

Things will change for Jaime Sommers at her new home next season, Lindsay predicted. There is more compassion at NBC for Jaime the human being than for the bionic personality.

"It will be more emotional; more concerned with the human level than with the bionic hardware," she asserted.

Lindsay enjoyed her first hiatus this year since the show started. Consequently, she has had a chance to get away and think.

"I want to do things with Jaime this year," she declared. "I want to do things with clothes, to loosen her up a little. Last year, Jaime took care of kids and busted a lot of faces. There were no relations; everything was all shallow. I want to find some way to show her as a person."

What about reports of a feud between her and Lee Majors, star of "The Six-Million Dollar Man?"

"It was blown out of proportions," she responded. "Everything's fine with us."

What kind of an influence does she think the show has on youngsters, seeing this girl with supernatural physical powers?

"I think it has great influence," she answered. "If a child loses an arm in an accident, if he or she watches the show, it will prove loss of a limb doesn't have to screw up the child for the rest of its life."

Lindsay has had her own near-tragic accident. During production last year, the car in which she and her husband were riding, crashed on a dangerous curve one Sunday afternoon, sending both to the hospital with severe cuts and abrasions. Production was halted for several weeks.

Fully recovered, Lindsay blamed much of it on fatigue. Consequently, she now has very strict work rules. No more 14-hour days. She's at the studio at 8, leaves at 6 or 6:30 p.m. at the latest.

Case of Distaste -- Quincy (JACK KLUGMAN, right) attempts to get some directions from a worker (WYNN IRWIN) as he investigates the case of a man who has apparently been slain with a frozen hot dog, in "The Hot Dog Murder," on NBC's "Quincy" Friday, July 29 (9-11 p.m., EDT; repeat).

ANGIE DICKINSON

Angie Dickinson's career is made up of little surprises. Her now-estranged husband, Burt Bacharach ("We're still very close," Angie hastens to explain) never thought her "Police Woman" series would go beyond two seasons.

It's about to enter its fourth season in the fall. And that's another surprise, this time to Angie herself.

"I never dreamed it would be renewed," Angie declared, noting that this past season's ratings were soft. "But I'm happy to be renewed," she emphasized.

Parenthetically, Miss Dickinson, the trim, slim, beautiful blonde who became a television-series star after eight years of limited career activity while she raised her daughter, Nikki, has some reservations about another season of television's grind in a weekly, action-filled series.

"I don't know how happy I'll be in a month (after production resumes)" she observed. "If it gets dull, I don't want to continue, I'd like to go out a little bit on top."

Angie Dickinson is a perky, fun-loving gal with a spicy sense of humor and an adventurous soul. Where her career is concerned, she keeps it under firm control and is obviously capable of moving in any direction she desires. She won a beauty contest just after completing college (a contest she entered as a lark), and was bitten by the show business bug. She enrolled in a drama workshop, and soon began a succession of prominent roles in films. Her first was opposite John Wayne in "Rio Bravo."

In quick order came co-starring roles opposite Frank Sinatra in "Oceans 11," Richard Burton in "The Bramble Bush," Marlon Brando in "The Chase," and Gregory Peck in "Captain Newman, M.D."

When she married composer-performer Burt Bacharach and gave birth to Nikki (who had to remain in an incubator for months after being born weighing less than two pounds), Miss Dickinson eased off on her own career.

Her occasional activity came under strict conditions. She had to be home by 6 o'clock each evening because she did not want to neglect her family. That presented complications when she went into the "Police Woman" series, but nevertheless, those were her terms.

With Miss Dickinson playing the provocative and sensual Sgt. Pepper Anderson, "Police Woman" was an early success in its first season and held on with moderate ratings for the next two years.

When the new season kicks off in September, "Police Woman" will have a new time period, but on the same Tuesday nights, from 10-11. In its old time period (from 9-10) will be a new dramatic series, "Big Hawaii."

She's a little miffed, however, about recent criticism levelled in print regarding violence on television shows and the boycotts which are being urged by a number of pressure groups. The networks are responding to these groups and Miss Dickinson sees police shows taking on new tones because of network crackdowns on hard violence.

"If they (the pressure groups) want to boycott things on television, how about some of the commercials our kids watch at home at 8 o'clock in the morning? They can't help but see them because they are on their favorite shows," Miss Dickinson declared.

She also joshed about another recent story in "TV Guide" which alluded to the excessiveness of sex on television lately.

"They talk about 'Charley's Angels' and not me because I wear a bra," she said snidely. "I like to be sensuous, not sexy. If a role calls for me to exude sex to trap a man, I'll play it because I'm an actress. But if any of my roles try to force sexiness, I can fight it. I have a say to some degree. Sex for the sake of sex is a bore."

CATHERINE SPAAK and JAMES FRANCISCUS star in "The Cat O' Nine Tails," high-tension thriller about a murderer at large, to be presented for the first time on television on "The CBS Friday Night Movies," Friday, July 29 (9-11 p.m., EDT) on CBS.

T.U. Dialogue

EYE ON ALICE -- I know this doesn't have anything to do with TV, but what is Alice Cooper doing these days? I'm so crazy about him, also where can I write to him? Karen Serby, Ft. Collins, Colo.

This column is very democratic, and non-TV questions are not discriminated against as long as they're entertainment oriented. As for Alice, he did a concert recently in Anaheim, Calif., his first stage appearance in two years. So, you can expect to see him on the concert circuit again soon. Write in care of Warner Bros. Records Inc., 300 Warner Bl., Burbank, Ca.

COWPOKE -- I would appreciate it if you could tell me how to obtain photos of one of the greatest cowboys of our time, Gene Autrey. My mother has all his records and coloring books and has seen all his movies. She's been a fan for 40 years. If I could get her an autographed picture she would cry forever and be so happy. T.W. Portsmouth, Ohio.

I hope this letter doesn't spoil the surprise. Since retiring from performing, Autrey has become a top-notch businessman. Among his ventures is the baseball California Angels. He is Chairman of the Board for the team. You could write to him there at Anaheim Stadium, 2090 State College Blvd. Anaheim, Ca. 92806. Good luck.

OUTER LIMITS -- You may not be able to answer this question, but about 10 years ago there was a TV show in which Robert Culp played the last man on earth. He had a glass hand and it turned out he was a robot or something. I think it was on either the Outer Limits or Twilight Zone. What was the name of the show, and when exactly did it air? Marty Bellman, Rock Island, Ill.

It's the easy questions I get wrong, not the toughies. The episode was on the Outer Limits, the sci-fi series that would ask to "please stand by" while they took control of your set. It was called "Demon With a Glass Hand," was written by Harlon Ellison and aired October 17, 1964. Culp played Trent, the last survivor on earth, being hunted by aliens from the future. It turns out that he is an android who has the population of Earth in microcosmic form within one of the fingers of his glass hand. At least, I think that's it.

BLOW-UP -- A while ago I watched a movie on TV called "Blow-Up." Since then I have been trying to find out what ever happened to the leading actor, David Hemmings. I think that he is really cute and anything you can find out about him would be greatly appreciated. S.A.M., Moorhead, Minn.

You haven't been looking hard enough. Nothing out of the ordinary happened after "Blow-up" to Hemmings. He's continued to act ever since, and co-starred in "Camelot," "Charge of the Light Brigade," "Barbarella," "Alfred the Great," "Juggernaut" and just a couple of months ago "Islands in the Stream," the Hemingway-based film

A Package

"Tut: The Boy King"

In a year in which television has paid much attention to royalty (Princess Grace has had a special in recent weeks, and Queen Elizabeth has had more than a few hours devoted to her Silver Jubilee), the royalty of Egypt is about to get some notice. Tutenkhamun is going to have a special of his own.

At least, the exhibit of some 55 pieces of his funerary equipment is going to have a special of its own. Nicknamed "King Tut" in the wake of publicity following discovery of his tomb, Tutenkhamun has quickly become one of the most famous pharaohs. This is because, by chance, among all the pharaohs of Egypt, he is the only one whose tomb has survived intact to modern times.

The treasures found in Tutenkhamun's tomb are worth millions of dollars: the inner coffin alone, in which the king's mummy was placed, is made of 300 lbs. of solid gold. It was found within a series of four gilded shrines which housed a stone sarcophagus, inside which were nested three coffins. The head of the mummy was covered by a superbly beautiful gold mask, and the arms and fingers were heavy with bracelets and rings.

In the anteroom to the burial chamber were all the things the king would need in his next life: golden thrones, caskets full of jewels, chariots, alabaster vases, couches supported by gold plated lions, bulls, and hippopotamuses, as well as all the small, personal possessions he would need -- even a small, farewell bunch of flowers.

Who was Tutenkhamun, that all this was lavished on his burial? Nobody all that important, really, and this leads to speculation as to what might have been in the tombs of the great pharaohs before the grave robbers reached them.

Tutenkhamun was little more than a boy when he died. He was 18 years old, and had reigned 9 years, probably in name only: power was in the hands of Ay, the vizier who succeeded Tutenkhamun. The boy ruled at a time when Egypt was in great turmoil. He succeeded his father-in-law, Akhenaton, who, depending on which experts you choose to believe, was either a great genius and the first founder of a monotheistic religion, or else a dreamer and incompetent who neglected the real problems of his country.

Little is known about Tutenkhamun, and it was hoped that his tomb might contain information about him. Information from the tomb has been disappointingly scarce, but perhaps this is not surprising; it was, after all, constructed by his successor, who even went to the unprecedented lengths of having himself depicted in the tomb as the king's successor. The boy died young, of undetermined causes, and the body which all this magnificence enclosed was badly preserved. His father-in-law, Akhenaton, had disappeared without a trace, leaving neither tomb nor historic records of his death, and Akhenaton's wife, Nefertiti, had the same fate. Tutenkhamun's wife, Ankhesenamon, also dropped out of history, but not without leaving behind, in the records not of Egypt but of the Hittites, a desperate plea for help.

The "King Tut" exhibition is making a two year tour of American museums, and has been breaking all attendance records since it opened at the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C. The television special was filmed at the National Gallery, and has Orson Welles as its on-camera narrator. Speaking of the treasures of the tomb, Welles says, "It fascinates every kind of person. It's mind blowing."

starring George C. Scott. The problem may lie in the fact that he is no longer the 25-year-old fellow you remember. Hemmings is now 36 and for the last few years he has been doing character roles more and more. He's gotten a little pudgier, too. In "Islands in the Stream" he plays a ravaged drunk.

SEXY -- Who played the character opposite Jean Paul Belmondo in the movie "Borsalino" which ran on ABC's late movie recently. He sure is sexy. Caroline Meade, Eldridge, N.D.

That's Alain Delon, something of a sex symbol in his native France as well.

Reeling In Florence Stanley

By WINIFRED ELZE

Florence Stanley is an actress who has managed to combine a successful career with a successful family life. This is probably because she is as warm a person away from the television cameras as she is in front of them as Bernice, Det. Fish's wife in the TV series "Fish."

The premise of "Fish" is that Bernice has persuaded the reluctant Det. Fish (Abe Vigoda) to join her in providing a group home for a half dozen New York children who need to belong to a family. Of Bernice, Miss Stanley thinks that "rather than being a student of psychology, Bernice has all the right instincts without having studied. She has the right instincts in relation to the children." Miss Stanley has studied behavioral psychology at the New School For Social Research in New York City, but says she "hadn't made a connection" between her studies and the role she plays on "Fish."

She says she studied behavioral psychology because it is a "continuing interest of mine, and in many ways ties in with my feelings about acting. I have always been fascinated with the 'why' of things." She enrolled in the course for a year in the New School's graduate program, and although she had long been out of school, she got an "A" both semesters. "I was tickled with myself," she says, "I loved it. It was fun, not work; it was all exciting."

Miss Stanley began her acting career during World War II as a civilian actress with the Department of the Army's Special Services unit. She toured the American zone in Germany in a production of "The Cat And The Canary." "The audiences loved it," she says, "but someone decided we shouldn't have plays, we should have music." Miss Stanley offered the lieutenant in charge of the unit her services as a musical director. He accepted, and she spent the remainder of the war supervising musical acts and, she says, "thoroughly enjoying myself." The lieutenant happened to be Sam Goldwyn Jr., who, she says, "appeared to be about fourteen years old at the time."

Although she has appeared in such Broadway productions as "Fiddler on the Roof," Miss Stanley says she is not a singer. She classifies herself as "an actor who can sing when she has to."

Miss Stanley has acted in most forms of theatre: stock, touring companies, Off Broadway, and Broadway. She was also among those to pioneer in the infant industry of television, appearing on "Studio One," "Lights Out," and "Playhouse 90."

Miss Stanley says she likes both theatre and television. The medium isn't that important to her. Whether she wants to do a show or not "depends on the part."

Speaking about theatre, she says "I never mind a long run because I don't think of it as repeating, but as recreating the role every night. A lot of actors mid, but I don't. I compare it to someone who tells a good joke and tells it well. Even if you've heard it before, you still enjoy listening. It's the same kind of creativity as telling a joke... What you do is always a little different."

One of the most important things about acting, she says, is that "you have to like the person you're playing. You can never, ever, believe you're playing a villain, because nobody thinks of himself as being villainous or mean... In a good play, the author gives them justification."

She says she has never felt miscast. She has been offered scripts and has turned some down, but not because she didn't like a part or a character. Rather, it was because she felt "the play lacked taste or there was nudity involved."

Miss Stanley makes her home in New York, where she lives with her husband, 25 years, Martin Newman, who is a writer. She has worked lately "in California more than New York. California is where most of the television is being done now. Movies are shot all over." She says her husband is sympathetic. "We get lonesome," she says, "but there is no sense of who comes first and what comes first."

Her children, Judith, aged 24, and Adam, aged 19, are, she says, "very knowledgeable in theatre." She says they are very interested in reading the scripts she is offered and in giving their opinions, she says, "but I don't always agree with them."

"Both children are interested in writing," she says, "My daughter is interested in the publishing business and writing. My son is in college and still making decisions." The hardest thing, she says, "is to keep from giving advice."

Now that she spends time in both California and New York, she has had an opportunity to compare the two. "Los Angeles seems to be a new frontier in theatre. It used to be not a theatre town, but now there are a lot of Off Broadway type theatres there." She adds, "If I were a young director and wanted to mount a play, I think I could find space and money out there faster -- people are more excited about it." She emphasized that she was talking about small theatres: "for big theatre, New York is still the place."

She thinks there is "still something wonderful about going to the theatre, about being part of a large group. There's something you get at the theatre, some experience you don't get in movies." She agreed that perhaps it was because, at the movies, what the audience does makes no difference to the pictures on the screen.

"I did boo at a movie once," she says. "I didn't like the ending, and I did boo. Not very loud. But I wouldn't do that at a play, ever."

T.U. Star Scene

Carrie Fisher, who plays Princess Leia in the smash sci-fi saga "Star Wars," will make her television dramatic debut in the NBC production of "Come Back Little Sheba." Fisher will be sharing the camera with a couple of seasoned pros in the Inge classic -- Lawrence Olivier and Joanne Woodward. The Jimmy Stewart role in "It's a Wonderful Life" is being adapted for Marlo Thomas for a TV movie ABC hopes will become a Christmas regular. "It Happened One Christmas." Also starring in the re-make will be Orson Welles, Cloris Leachman and Wayne Rogers. Thomas is also co-producing the special, which was written by Lionel Chetwynd, whose last credits include "The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravits," for which he received an Oscar nomination. Conrad Hall, who got an Oscar for his camerawork in "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" will do the principal photography in his first TV assignment.

Flash Gordon, the quintessential space hero of the comics and serials, will be the subject of the first full-length animated space fantasy produced especially for adults on TV. The two-hour NBC movie will remain true to the comic strip created the mid-1930s by Alex Raymond. It's set for the '78-'79 season.

Producer Dan Curtis, who specialized in spook stories some years back, is basing his next project on his own childhood in Bridgeport, Conn., during the 1930s. Dean Jones and Louise Sorel will play husband and wife and Katy Kurtzman and Chris Peterson are their children in "When Every Day Was the Fourth of July." Curtis is doing the film for NBC. Flamboyant rock 'n' roller Elton John will team up with Kermit the Frog for an upcoming show on the syndicated Muppet Show series. Quiz question: Who played the mysterious blonde in the white Thunderbird in "American Graffiti?" Hint -- she's starring in a new situation comedy. (See answer below).

Harry Chapin's song "Cat's in the Hat," about an unfortunate father and son relationship, will be the basis of a dramatic film being developed by EMI-TV for NBC next season. Latest animated hero to be developed for TV's holiday season will be "Nestor, the Long-Eared Christmas Donkey," set for ABC. Tony Bennett will bring back fond memories with a Cole Porter medley on the August 14 installment of PBS' Evening at Pops.

A couple of comedy pilots which sound promising but aren't on CBS's schedule are set to air Aug. 2. Klein Time stars Robert Klein with a zany quartet called the Comedy Patrol. Guests on the show are Peter Boyle and Madeline Kahn. The other pilot is a TV treatment of "Sheila Levine." Written by Gail Parent, author of the original novel, and directed by Peter Bonerz (Jerry on the Bob Newhart Show), it stars Dori Brenner and Milton Berle.

Ross Hunter, producer of "Airport," as well as numerous other mass entertainment films, has signed with NBC to develop special projects for the network. Viewers who have missed the acid wit of political satirist Mark Russell on his PBS specials, can catch him beginning Aug. 7 on CBS, when he will be a regular on the Starland Vocal Band Show. Russell also sings and plays piano, treating listeners to such treats as, "This Is Absolutely, Positively, the Very Last Song I'm Ever Gonna Sing About Nixon, Part I," and a torch song for middle-aged men, "But I Will Wait for You, Grace Kelly."

Gilda Radner of NBC's Saturday Night and Victor Garber of "Godspell" fame will sing and dance as the Jack and Jill of Hearts in a fanciful deck of cards in "Jack: A Flash Fantasy." It's a rock opera set for July 26 on PBS.

Answer to quiz: Suzanne Sommers who plays Chrissy on ABC's Three's Company was the girl who whispered "I love you" out the window to Richard Dreyfus.

By Mrs. J. E. Caskey

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Rutherford of Luling visited her aunt, Mrs. J. B. Smart, and Mrs. Ronald Huling this week. Their son, Jimmy, is now serving in the South Pacific.

Mrs. Clyde Brown left the last of the week for a week-long vacation on Padre Island. Her sisters from Killeen are staying in her home during her absence.

Miss Carolyn Farris and Earl Smith Jr. spent the weekend in New Orleans visiting her aunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hardcastle of Sedona, Arizona visited Mr. and Mrs. Oran T. Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Davis this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Oran T. Gray were in Austin to attend the RCLA convention.

Miss Debbie Stapp was honored with a going away dinner at the Red Lobster in Austin Wednesday night. Those present were the honoree Miss Stapp, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stapp, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Gray and sons, all of Florence, and Mr. and Mrs. D. Curb of Austin. Debbie left Friday for Beeville where she will be a member of the school faculty.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Isbell left Thursday on a vacation trip in Arkansas. They will also visit relatives while there.

Mrs. W. H. Hamilton was a visitor in Georgetown Sunday.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Andice Cemetery for Mrs. Ellen Jackson who died Sunday in Austin. Rev. Ed Jennings officiated at the service. Mrs. Jackson's home was in Florence for years. She had been in a nursing home for some time. Survivors are two grandsons, Craig and Brian Jackson of Austin. Her husband, J. W. Jackson and a son, J. C. Jackson, preceded her in death.

Mrs. Les Burgess of New Braunfels was in Florence Tuesday to take her aunt, Mrs. L. R. Armstrong to the Jackson funeral and to Georgetown to visit her sister, Miss Lola Wales, at the Wesleyan Home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Miller were in Georgetown Sunday for lunch.

Mrs. W. D. Walker visited Mrs. Wilbur C. Love at the hospital in Georgetown Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hood were in Georgetown Tuesday.

Mrs. Wanda Reilly and Mrs. Milburn Ward were in Convenience foods on market

When you find a new product on the market, most likely it will be a convenience food, either frozen or canned.

A new food might well be a familiar food in most homes, one that takes time and effort to prepare. The processor usually has a certain group or situation in mind in marketing a new food item such as the small family, for instance.

You will find many new items in smaller packages. They have been planned for those who eat alone and do not want to spend time with preparation. Or it might be for the family whose members eat at odd hours and not as a family group.

Because some convenience foods cost more, with special ingredients, the product may be geared for those people with above-average incomes.

You may find new foods on the market that do not fit your situations, but you will also probably find some that are just what you are looking for, since most manufacturers research the market thoroughly before putting something new out on the shelves.

Personal

Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Johnson were in Brownwood Sunday where Mr. Johnson was the guest minister at First Presbyterian church. They also visited friends and relatives in Comanche, Ballinger and Brady before returning home Tuesday evening.

Temple Tuesday for Mrs. Reilly's check up.

Mrs. Ethel Reed is spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. John Cowan in Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hayden, Mr. and Mrs. John Cowan of Austin were in Andice to attend the funeral of Mrs. Ellen Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Wade and Hadley Wade were in Georgetown for the Wade reunion Saturday at the San Gabriel Park.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Fisher were called to Richardson because of the death of his sister, Mrs. Blanch Daniel.

Florence to host Friendship Days

Before you plan the family outing for next weekend consider attending the Fifth Annual Florence Friendship celebration Friday and Saturday.

Arts and crafts, food and entertainment of all types will be provided by the folks in Florence beginning at 8 a.m. each day.

Some of the events scheduled include a domino tournament at 1 p.m. Friday, a parade at 5 p.m. Friday followed by a baby show, talent show and square dancing.

Saturday's line-up includes an armadillo race at 9:30 a.m., a barbecue in the city park at 11:30 a.m., an old time fiddle contest at 1 p.m. and an auction at 7 p.m. The annual Miss Friendship contest will begin at 8 p.m. and one local young lady will be selected to represent Florence for the coming year.

Extensive plans have been made by the people of the community to make the summer celebration fun for the entire family.

Ronny Maynard to take bride

Martha Ann Burdell of Abilene and Ronny Dale Maynard of Georgetown have announced that they will be married September 3 at the Pioneer Drive Baptist Church in Abilene.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Ted Burdell, Jr. of Abilene and Mrs. Ann Burdell of Abilene. Mr. and Mrs. Don Maynard of Georgetown are the parents of the bridegroom-elect.

The bride-elect is a 1975 graduate of Abilene High School and she attended Southwestern University in Georgetown. She is presently employed with the J. C. Penney company in Abilene.

Her fiancé, who is a 1974 graduate of Abilene High School, also attended Southwestern and is currently employed by the F & W Drilling Company in Abilene.

EVERYONE LOVES A PARADE

To hear the band, to see the uniformed soldiers, to see the might of our tanks, to see the strength of our country, these things stir the heart and make us proud to be an American. Our God has made us strong and blessed us greatly, however our greatest strength is in the Lord. "GOD is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." In these unsettled times we need to show our faith in the Lord, and speak with the courage of one whose father can do all things. Renew your strength each week by attending services in the Lord's house.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Liberty Hill NEWS

By Howard N. Wilson

This has been one of the busiest summers in our community in my memory, and this is good for the community as well as making news reporting easier and more enjoyable. It always makes us feel good to see all of the constructive activity in our area, and we do like to talk about it — even to brag a little.

Our school is something of which we can all be justly proud. Even though this is normally vacation time for most students and teachers, there are many people busily engaged in the Summer Education Program while others are working in and around the buildings and the grounds to make our school system even better, more attractive and more efficient. Everyone in the school administration and faculty, as well as the volunteers from the community who do so much for the school are all to be commended for their contributions toward enhancing our educational system and the program it offers.

New students or students who have not pre-registered should report to the school between August 1 and August 12, between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. to register for the fall session. High School Principal Ed Pettit or some other staff member will be on duty to register the students from Monday through Friday. Anyone desiring more information about the registration should call 778-5121.

We want to remind everyone that our Liberty Hill Public Library observed its first anniversary Saturday, July 23, with an "Open House" from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Our library opened for business on July 26, 1976, and it has rendered a great service to our people. Many people have contributed to the success of the library, but we feel that Helen Chesley, Doris Posey, Charles Haight, and Myrta Matthews of the Board of Directors deserve special commendation. We salute them and all of the other people who have labored so diligently to assure that the Liberty Hill Public Library is an asset to our community.

Irene and Richard Leck were in Georgetown several days ago visiting Mrs. Berneice Connell and other friends and relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Roberts, Mrs. Wesley Foust and Karen Foust were in Georgetown recently visiting Mrs. Berneice Connell and other relatives and friends.

Melba Lackey and Mrs. Lyda Whitted were in Georgetown several days ago also visiting Mrs. Connell, who recently got out of the hospital. Other friends and relatives were also visited by the two.

Jewell and Dorothy Wilson were in San Saba last Tuesday and Wednesday visiting Mary, Debra, Dianne and Donna Johnson.

Bill and Melba Lackey will be spending this weekend at the Sulphur Springs Fishing Camp, near Bend, Texas, where they go each summer to unwind in the peaceful atmosphere of this "haven of rest." Some of their children and friends are expected to join them during the weekend.

Bond sales are reported

June sales of Series E and H United States Savings Bonds in Williamson County were reported today by County Bond Chairman John T. King. Sales for the six-month period totaled $206,122 for 52% of the 1977 sales goal of $400,000.

Texas sales during the month amounted to $24,027,340, while sales for the first six months of 1977 totaled $140,919,165 with 51% of the yearly sales goal of 276.9 million achieved.

Georgetown represented in Youth Conservation Corp

Vincent Puskarich and Sharon Reed from Georgetown are among approximately 100 young men and women from across Texas who are spending eight weeks of their summer participating in the Youth Conservation Corps at Angelo State University in San Angelo.

The YCC program provides summer jobs and an education experience to youths aged 15 to 18.

Angelo State University has contracted with the Department of the Interior of the federal government to conduct the YCC camp, providing the room and board and programmed work and free time activities.

The young people are working around San Angelo area lakes, erecting barricades, concrete shade covers, barbecue pits and other projects. While they are involved in the outdoor projects the camp participants spend about 25 percent of their time in ecology studies.

As part of their ecology studies, the young people will take trips to Big Bend National Park, Padre Island, and the Caverns of Sonora.

In their free time, the participants will be able to make use of university facilities including the swimming pool and the Houston Harte University Center. Fiesta del Concho also was on their agenda.

YOUTH CONSERVATION CORPS participants at Angelo State University in San Angelo enjoy much of their leisure time in the university's facilities including the Houston Harte University Center. Pictured from Georgetown are Vincent Puskarich and Sharon Reed.

Public hearing on G'twn budget scheduled July 25

A public hearing to consider Georgetown's budget is scheduled for Monday, July 25, 6:30 p.m., at City Hall.

At that time City Manager Leo Wood officially presents the projected budget of Georgetown for September 1, 1977 through October 31, 1978. The budget includes revenue sharing funds as well as city revenue.

Wood presented council members with a "work copy" of the budget six weeks ago.

He described it as a "conservative" budget and encouraged the public to attend the hearing on it this Monday.

Once council ratifies the budget, it goes on file in the City Secretary's office, and may be examined by any citizen.

Sidewalk Sale was paradise for bargains

People will do almost anything for a bargain, as the Tenth Annual Georgetown Sidewalk Sale proved Friday.

Hundreds of shoppers began lining the square at 7:30 a.m. Friday waiting for the businesses to open. Shoppers of every age from six to sixty crowded the sidewalks and browsed through the bargains despite temperatures that reached high into the nineties throughout the day.

One of the favorite shopping stops along the square was the booths and tables set up by the students at Rabbit Hill Kindergarten. The youths sold a variety of merchandise ranging from wall decorations to cupcakes. Ice cold punch, prepared by the children themselves, was a popular item appealing to the thirst of the hot shoppers.

Clothing, cosmetics, hardware and produce merchants equally shared the attention of the shoppers and businessmen beamed as merchandise was cleared away to make room for new shipments.

The Sidewalk Sale is an annual event in Georgetown and shoppers from both near and far have found that it is one of the best summer sales in Central Texas.

New water pump will boost water pressure for some homeowners

A new water pump, installed Friday behind Westside School on Scenic Drive, will increase the volume and water pressure at many homes, particularly those residing in San Gabriel Heights.

Many have complained about low water pressure, about being unable to generate enough water to wash dishes, water lawns, or take showers.

According to Water Superintendent Rex Wooten, the pump will be a "continuous — meaning it won't be fluctuating — running pressure on the discharge side."

Wooten says the six inch water line at San Gabriel Heights (serving over 102 families) is more than adequate for present water needs. "The low pressure out there was the problem and this pump will boost the pressure considerably."

He remarked that a 6 inch water pipe can handle 2400 gallons per minute and that far exceeds what residents of San Gabriel Heights will use.

The booster pump, he adds, will pump about 500 gallons per minute and will run continuously during the hot months of summer when pressure is always down.

At 1:30, Friday afternoon, Georgetown water engineer Rex Wooten pushed the starter switch.

From an initial reading of 25 pounds per square inch, the water pressure quickly built to 67 pounds per square inch.

Homeowners in San Gabriel Heights who left weakly pouring sprinklers running and then left for work, came home to discover water rapidly gushing forth from them.

After the pump began operating, Wooten, Mayor Doerfler, City Manager Leo Wood, Councilman Doering and Scott conducted an "on site" inspection of San Gabriel Heights.

They were favorably impressed upon seeing the significant boost in water pressure at the subdivision located on Leander Road.

The pressure pump was purchased from Trane Supply Company, fittings came from Trans-Tex Supply, and Brooks Ditching Company was contractor. Rex Wooten, Water Supervisor, designed and supervised installation of the San Gabriel Heights booster station.

Windmills are coming — back

By Ralph Shaffer
Special to The Christian Science Monitor

San Francisco

As the hot winds of summer blow across the nation's farms, not all of it is going to waste. A re-birth in windmills is under way as the price of electricity continues to rise.

In 1976, the three remaining U.S. windmill manufacturers, going flat-out, sold over 4,000 new outfits. In addition, many state and county agents were called on to help repair some of the estimated 250,000 older windmills still believed to be operable. New parts and local tinkering can often refurbish one for a few hundred dollars.

In the 1930s, prior to the Roosevelt administration's sponsorship of the Rural Electrification Administration (REA), there were more than 6 million mechanically-operating windmills in rural America.

The advent of government-planned land-lines along lonesome country roads and across myriad back-40's brought generators, pumps, brooders, ranges, milkers and all sorts of electrified cold storage to both large and small farms.

REA power was cheap at half a cent per kilowatt hour. So, with the REA poles braced and the strong lines bringin' light and power, who needs windmills?

Many of today's farmers say they do. Kilowatt rates are 20 times what they were 40 years ago, with prospects of further increases from utilities generating power with fossil fuel. Consequently many farmers are turning to auxiliary wind power.

The makers of U.S. windmills — with plants located in Arkansas, Nebraska, and Ohio — all have a record of over 75 years of continuous production. They offer an average windmill — these vary by size, height, and capacity — for under $2,000. Five years' use will amortize the expense, company officials claim, and reduce electrification bills by as much as $50 a month, depending on the specific area.

After that, except for maintenance, the power is as free as the wind.

★ Muniz

"Yes sir, we do," said Jury Foreman Ruben Trevino.

"Do you find from the evidence beyond a reasonable doubt that there is a possibility that the defendant would commit future acts of violence that would constitute a continuing threat to society?" was the second asked by Judge Lott.

"Yes sir, we do," said the jury foreman. BECAUSE THE JURY answered both questions "yes", the judge must sentence Muniz to death.

If the jury had answered either one of the questions "no", Muniz would have received a life sentence.

In a case where the death penalty is given, the case automatically goes to the Texas State Court of Criminal Appeals for review.

The jury Tuesday pronounced Muniz, 20, guilty of capital murder, and the second phase of the trial Wednesday was to determine the sentence.

IF A DEFENDANT is convicted of a capital murder, only one of two sentences can be given, life in prison or death.

In asking for a sentence of life in prison, Defense Attorneys called Muniz's brother-in-law Richard DeCoy, best friend Fernando Merfrano, mother Maria Muniz and wife Christina Muniz. They testified that Muniz was a good father and husband.

District Attorney Ed Walsh called Georgetown Police Chief Travis Thomas, Williamson County Sheriff August Bosshard and Precinct 1 Justice of the Peace Bill Hill.

THEY TESTIFIED that the defendant had a bad reputation as a peaceful citizen in the community.

County Attorney Billy Ray Stubblefield testified that Muniz had been convicted of resisting arrest and escape from police custody on July 3, 1976.

The jury was not allowed to hear testimony about the defendants previous rape at arrest on May 30, 1976. Carolyn Spruil of Temple testified that Muniz had raped her outside her house in Georgetown on May 30, 1976. The jury was not allowed to hear about the previous rape because the case has not been brought to trial.

PSYCHIATRIST Dr. John Holbrook testified Wednesday that his March 7 examination of Muniz revealed him to be an "anti-social personality" and completely sane.

Muniz felt no remorse for the murder of Miss Bickham and his attitudes were geared mainly towards his own needs, said Holbrook.

When asked whether he felt any suicidal tendencies, Muniz's written answer said "I love myself," testified Holbrook.

Holbrook said that he knew of no cure for the anti-social personality and that such persons are usually repeat offenders.

"This probably would occur again, perhaps even more violent if that's possible," said Holbrook.

"THE DEFENSE is attempting to save the life of Pedro Cruz Muniz," said Defense Attorney Jesse Botello in his closing remarks.

Botello asked the jury, "Do we have enough evidence to terminate the life of an individual?" Please temper justice with mercy," he added.

The defense is telling you, "Don't get emotional about Janis Bickham, get emotional about this defendant," said Walsh in his rebuttal.

"DID ANYONE try to save the life of Janis Bickham?" said Walsh.

Asking for the death penalty, Walsh said, "The law provides for it, the facts justify it."

"YOU have the duty of protecting your community from criminals," said Walsh.

"He sits in this court a convicted murderer," said Walsh. "It gets down to what you are going to do about it."

Nearly 100 persons, many of them friends and relatives of the defendant, waited in the courthouse Wednesday night for the jury to set the sentence.

Also waiting were Mr. and Mrs. Otis Bickham, parents of the coed who was murdered.

When the jury came back with the death sentence, Otis Bickham, who had sat through all eight days of the trial with his wife, said that the sentence "shows we do have a good system of justice."

MUNIZ WILL be formally sentenced to die if the higher court upholds the conviction.

Over 500 rulings by the judge and at least 6,000 pages of court transcripts must now be finished and sent to the appeals court. The transcripts will not be ready for at least three months.

The state's case against Muniz was based on eyewitness identifications placing Muniz in the area just prior to and after the murder, and on a signed confession made by Muniz about how he had been with the victim and knocked her unconscious.

ANOTHER strong point in the prosecution's case was that the Georgetown Police Department had recovered articles of the victim's clothing in the river after Muniz told them that he had thrown them there.
